Natural Behavior Discovery

Comparison Report for:
Mary Butler
and
Chris Coddington

Providing key insights into how you can build a sound working relationship together.

Introduction

We have prepared this Comparison Report based on each of your unique strengths and struggles and your DNA Natural Behavior Styles being "Community Builder" for Mary and "Strategist" for Chris.

The goal is to provide specific insights into how you will each operate in a workplace environment. For your teammate or leader, this information will provide more guidance on how to manage your expectations and how to best interact with you.

We have provided a graph on the next page which shows your different behavioral profile factor scores upon which this report is based. To review the detailed differences and/or similarities in your sub-factor scores, please see Page 10.

Interpretation of this Report

In reviewing the report, please note the following points:

- The report reflects your natural behavior only. This behavior will generally remain consistent over time as it is the core of who you are. However, the report does not reflect how you may from time to time modify your behavior in certain situations based on experiences, education and values.
- There are no "good" or "bad" DNA Natural Behavior Styles. The key is how you can learn and become more productive from greater personal awareness of who you are.
- The report is a tool only and should not be solely relied on for making any decision.
- The graph below shows your scores for each behavioral factor in a range of 20 (left side) to 80 (right side). The "percentage score" in the brackets next to each score refers to the percentage of people who you score higher than on this factor.
- To the extent you have strong behavioral factors over 60 and under 40, there is a higher chance the behavioral insights in this report will be more intensively displayed when you are making life and business decisions over a period of time. Scores closer to 50 indicate a more moderate style that is typically more flexible in that behavioral factor.

Mary, based on your factor scores, your two strongest behavioral factors are:

- * Content - Easy-going, satisfied, uncomplaining
- * Cautious - Seeks stability, prefers following proven paths

Chris, based on your factor scores, your two strongest behavioral factors are:

- * Pioneer - Sets direction, ambitious, committed to goals
- * Skeptical - Questioning, guarded, wary

Your Compatibility for Interacting Together

In this report, we have provided you each with insights for how to modify your behavior and communication with each other. These insights are based on the similarities and/or differences in your behavioral factor scores. Also, we have provided what the other person's unique strengths and struggles are so that you are more aware of them and how they are similar or different to you.

Use the summary below as a guide to how you can each modify your natural style when working together.

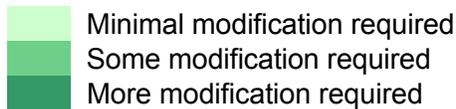

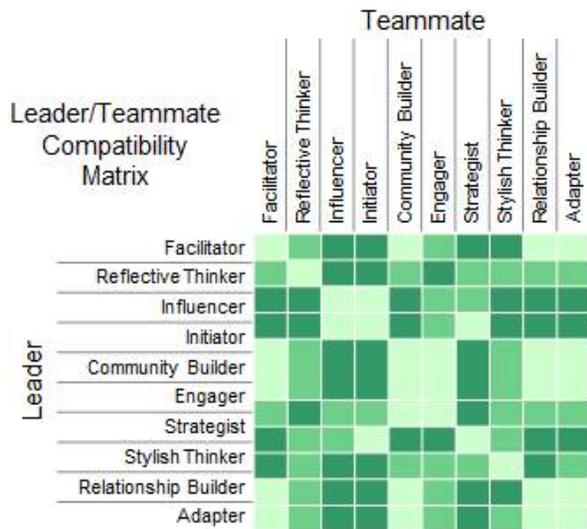

- Need to ensure that a relaxed environment is created so that both can safely contribute their ideas
- Adapt to work at a similar pace and create a shared commitment for the same vision and goals
- Need to remember that while one of you may interact a lot the other will need reflection time
- Need to recognize that one of you will connect with people easily and the other will stand-off and make observations
- Need to recognize that each of you will operate at a different pace and this could be frustrating
- Need to communicate clearly with each other so that the point is made but no one is hurt
- Both value accuracy and correctness
- At times need to temper the desire to be thorough with some flexibility
- Need to balance out the need to check situations out versus allowing situations to flow
- Benefit from one's desire to investigate and the other's ability to remain approachable and create a safe environment
- Need to balance out the drive to achieve versus having balance
- Benefit from one's goal drive but do not allow that competitiveness to de-stabilize steady progress
- Need to balance the openness toward taking risks with the desire for safety
- Benefit from one's desire to move forward into new areas and the other's ability to see and manage danger
- Each tend to follow proven methods and may not see the value in exploring new possibilities
- Need to be more open to new ways of thinking and not allow yourselves to get stuck in the old way because it is comfortable

Your Compatibility for Interacting Together

A strong long-term relationship with others can be built with commitment and mutual understanding. Successful relationships can be developed from any combination of behavioral style.

The graph below shows those persons whom you will most easily work with in a team because you are generally closer in relationship style, and hence minimal behavioral modification required. Also, it shows those DNA Natural Behavior Styles with whom you will have to more closely review how you each adapt because there are greater differences, and hence more behavioral modification required.

Adapting your behavior to work with another person requires concentrating more on your level of self-awareness when you are with that person. However, when a person in the team is different from you there are also many benefits because of their different perspectives. While recognizing that natural behavior is important, also sharing common values, beliefs and attitudes is important for building a successful working relationship.

Mary's DNA Ultimate Performance Guide

The DNA Ultimate Performance Guide in the table below has been prepared based on your scores highlighted on page 3 of this report. This information is very powerful for identifying the environment you wish to make decisions in, and for self coaching. Also, by sharing this information with others you will learn how to honor them by more effectively adapting to their needs.

The Performance Strengths are your primary talents which if used appropriately will help you in performing to your greatest potential, with the least stress. The Performance Struggles are behavioral traits which can arise from over using your Performance Strengths. We encourage you to use your strengths and manage your struggles such that they do not become weaknesses and get in the way of your maximum performance. Further, your coach, mentor, advisor, spouse, partner, family and others in your life should be aware of these Performance Strengths and Performance Struggles when relating to you.

Your Performance Strengths	Your Performance Struggles
Knowing your strengths, you can increase your performance potential. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Accepts the current environment as it is • Concentrates on balanced life • Creates a steady environment • Plans initiatives carefully • Sees potential dangers 	Knowing your struggles, you can reduce your performance impediments. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Prone to be complacent • May stay in comfort zone • May miss opportunities

Your Performance Environment Keys

The Performance Environment Keys indicate the required setting for your maximum performance.

- Focus on my life balance needs
- Keep the conversation easy-going
- Give me the directions to move forward
 - Look for ways to minimize the risks
 - Allow me time to survey the situation

The Performance Environment Keys indicate how you wish to be related to by others. If others relate to you on these terms then an enhanced relationship can be developed and maintained with you. You also need to be prepared to honor how others wish to be related to understanding their performance environment.
